

DUEL WITH PISTOLS SHARP, DESPERATE.

Two Men Fight on Porch, One Is Wounded and Wild Bullet Hits Woman Who Stood Behind Injured. Quarrel Over Motorman's Wife.

STANDING within eight feet of each other, W. H. Hampton, a street car motorman, and Theodore Wits, a plasterer, fought a short but desperate duel with pistols last night on the porch of the home of H. K. Smith at 1514 East Fifty-first street. When the smoke of battle cleared Hampton was unscathed, but directly behind him in the open doorway Mrs. Smith lay on the floor, a wild bullet from Wits' gun having struck her in the arm, inflicting a flesh wound.

Wits fled down the street from the scene and he was believed by Hampton to be on a boat until the arrival of the police patrol which conveyed him to the Receiving Hospital. Before Wits was taken to the hospital he was charged with the shooting of Mrs. Smith. Hampton was placed under arrest and taken to Central Station until detectives could investigate.

Both men claim that the other shot first. Hampton says Smith ordered him to quarrel with Hampton. He suddenly wheeled on the steps and opened fire. He admits he fired his gun and exchanged blows with Wits.

WHO SHOT FIRST? Wits at the Receiving Hospital declared that Hampton was the first to shoot. He declares he was backing away from the porch when Hampton fired. He says the concussion of the shot caused him to pull the trigger of his revolver which he had in his hand. He did not point his revolver at Hampton. Hampton fired the second time when Hampton was in the air and then fled.

Hampton asked why he had returned to the porch. He said that he feared he had wounded Hampton and wanted to ascertain if such was the case. He also thought his own wound was serious and he wanted to be seen by a doctor.

Smith was only slightly injured in the bullet which struck his arm. He was taken to the hospital where he was treated by a doctor. He is expected to recover from the shock of the bullet which transpired before his eyes.

Smith's wife did not shoot him. She was standing behind him when he was shot. She was taken from him when he was shot.

It is believed the effect of the morphine caused her to collapse in the courtroom.

RAZOR IN NECKTIE. Fearing an attempt to carry out their threats, Sheriff Chess had Boyle carefully searched before taking him to court today. A razor was found secreted in his necktie. As a further precaution, Sheriff Chess today took from Mrs. Boyle three hats, and removed all glass cases she had in her cell.

Sheriff Chess is of the opinion, in view of the day's developments, that it was Boyle's intention last night to kill his wife and then himself. Last night Boyle made a request that he be allowed to visit his wife in her cell, that they might talk over some private affairs and arrange the details of their appeal. Sheriff Chess was suspicious, and without refusing the request, put off granting it.

Boyle became anxious, and inquired why he had not been allowed to visit her. A man imprisoned on a vagrancy charge, admitted ownership of the razor. Boyle, however, loaned it to Boyle because he said he wanted to shave. A special guard has been placed over Boyle and his wife.

W. P. Wits, father of the kidnapped boy, and Frank P. Bull were present in court when sentence was pronounced. Sheriff Chess is keeping to himself the time when he will remove the prisoners to the penitentiary, but it is expected they will be taken away from here tonight or tomorrow.

HARRY FORKER DENIES CHARGES.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) SHARON (Pa.) May 10.—Harry Forker was seen tonight, regarding the statement issued by Boyle. He said: "I know absolutely nothing of this case. I only know Boyle and other members of his family as residents of Sharon. I have never had any dealings with him. I don't know the woman, who is said to be his wife. I can conceive of why Boyle should make such a statement, unless it be to get even with the Wits family for his protection. Boyle never showed me any letters. Boyle did not see me in Cleveland."

J. P. Wits, father of the kidnapped boy, after Boyle's statement had become public today, denied he had seen Boyle, or talked with him in Cleveland prior to his son's return, and the arrest of Boyle.

RECORDS TELL OF DEATH OF REEBLE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) YOUNGSTOWN (Pa.) May 10.—The police records here confirm the statements of James Boyle so far as the death of Dan Reeble, Jr., is concerned, but not as related to Harry Forker. Reeble died in June, 1925.

Patrolman Michael Donnelly talked with Reeble only an hour prior to his death. Leaving Reeble, Donnelly was less than a block away on his beat when he heard a noise in the direction of the Reeble building. He returned and found Reeble on the sidewalk, lying, but unconscious. No one was in sight.

Reeble had been in the habit of sitting on his window sill before retiring. No one ever has been suspected of knowing the exact manner of his death. Dan Shay, mentioned by Boyle, was a saloon-keeper here, and died about two years ago.

GAMBLER AVENGED.

SEATTLE, May 10.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Acting on information given at the time that E. C. Holbrook made his confession of forgery, in which he said that he had lost his money at the Buffalo Club, the police raided the club in the Starr Boyd block at First avenue and Cherry street early this morning. Five men were arrested, but the proprietor escaped.

Following his voluntary surrender at police headquarters on April 25, E. C. Holbrook confessed to forging the signature of Attorney F. H. Holzheimer. He had forged the name of the Independent Telephone Company's employees, to several checks. Previous to this he had lost large sums of money at the same gambling place, and had left his wife and seven children almost destitute.

VENDETTA ACCOMPLISHED.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Because Antonio Criezento, then a policeman, arrested Angelo Calveinni in Italy, ten years ago, he was stabbed thirty-six times early today in East 104th street. At the time of the arrest Calveinni vowed vengeance and they met for the first time today.

When the policeman arrived Criezento was lying on his back on the sidewalk with his eyes closed. He was holding the blade of a penknife in his face and body.

Although terribly lacerated, the hospital doctors say Criezento may not die, because the blade of the knife was short.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Banker a Suicide. OMAHA, May 10.—Julius Meyer, for many years a prominent figure in business circles in Omaha, and president of the Metropolitan Club, committed suicide at his home here today, after a brief illness.

Life for Murder. SAN JOSE, May 10.—Torahiko Yoshizawa, the Japanese, who, with other railroad section hands, killed their foreman, John Kyne, near Gilroy last night, entered a plea of guilty today in the second degree before Judge Welch this morning, and was sentenced to a life term at Folsom.

His companions are awaiting trial on a similar charge.

Trade Talk Pays.

Young men learn to operate the Linotype machine, a good trade that pays above the average. The Metropolitan Linotype Company is installing over 100 Linotype machines in the city. That means just as many positions to be filled at good wages.

The Los Angeles Times has installed a large auxiliary plant, to be used in case of fire or accident, and has placed in charge an expert mechanic and operator, making it possible for students who wish to learn the Linotype machine to do so. For terms address THE LINOTYPE COMPANY.

SUPERSTITION OF IRONWORKERS
A Blown-Out Furnace Stack Should Be Fired by a Pretty Woman to Ensure Luck.

One of the prettiest ceremonies that has been seen in that district for years was the "blowing in" of the Soho furnace, the oldest stack of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company, after an illness of several months. It was all due to an old superstition among ironworkers. To insure luck, a pretty woman should fire a furnace stack that has been blown out for any cause. This superstition has resulted in a custom, and so yesterday the old stack was fired by a beautiful young woman in a manner as charming and dainty as if she had been hosting at a social function, instead of in the presence of a giant soot-begrimed furnace stack, and with the greater part of the assemblage made up of sturdy millworkers in their shirt sleeves.

Miss Mildred MacClosky, a daughter of J. E. MacClosky, superintendent of the Soho department of the Jones & Laughlin plant, a recent graduate of Vassar, and one of Pittsburgh's prettiest young women, performed the act of putting the "sacred fire" to the old stack, and as she did so a great shout of good cheer and approval went up from the onlookers.

"Let this be the flaming signal for the lighting of the fire of industry over all the broad land," she exclaimed as she applied the torch.

Now, this torch was of no ordinary sort. Its long staff was wound with red, white and blue ribbons, and festooned with knots of other colors. Miss MacClosky was accompanied by her mother and Miss Gregg. Preparations had previously been made at the "mouth" of the furnace for the firing. After the torch had been applied to torches, lighted them with the "sacred fire," and hurried from tower to tower, the materials in the furnace at a dozen points, the ceremony was then complete. Nothing but good luck may be expected at the furnace now.—Pittsburgh Gazette.

Hearsay Evidence Excluded.
A good excuse was made use of by a young woman of twenty and some odd years when she was being examined as a witness before the court, and was questioned about her case.

"Your honor," said she, "I am not mistaken you remarked to a witness that he must not say anything except what he remembered exactly and had himself seen and heard, and should not give any hearsay evidence."

"Quite right, miss, but what has that to do with the question regarding your case?"

"Very much, for, you see, I remember absolutely nothing regarding the time of my birth, and what I know about it is only hearsay."

The judge let his glasses fall from his forehead onto his nose, took a pinch of snuff, and proceeded with the case.

accountants, and an aggregate loss... of approximately a quarter of a million... dollars thus far brought to light. The... citizen naturally wonders what a complete and thorough investigation of the... whole would reveal.

Mr. Williams, in commenting upon... that while it is hardly possible for the... same proportion of defalcations to be...
shown were all of the municipalities... of over 1000 population in this State...
experted, if such should prove the case...

latest State scandal—the discovery of...

just now of peculiar interest to the...

AUDITOR'S SUGGESTIONS.
"It would seem to me," said the...
accountant, "the logical thing to do, not... only in this but in other States as well...
city, county and State officials, to...
State I think that should be done...
prior to going into effect of the uniform accountability law enacted by the... last Legislature.

"We should clean up the books, ferret out all existing shortages, unearth... all the possible errors in the systems of... book-keeping and then we would be...
able, with an absolutely clean slate...
to put the uniform system into effect...
in such a manner that Washington... never need be pointed out as a...
State almost notorious for the laxity... of its methods of keeping its public... records.

True, this would be costly, but not...
one-half as expensive as to allow...
the uniform system to be introduced... and have been going on, and confront... annually thousands upon thousands of... dollars in shortages that would be an...
absolute impossibility under a uniform...
accountancy system."

"It is impossible to ascertain the... amount of defalcations in banks and... other private business houses throughout the State. It is safe to say that...
50 per cent. of all private defalcations... are suppressed, as far as the public...
is concerned, and the embezzler is allowed to make good his shortage.

"Perhaps there is no expert accountant in this State but who has not... asked himself the question time and... time again: 'Are we not, by our lack...
of uniformity in accounting, creating...
public, school for criminals?'"

full of his splendid length from the... still waters, and then, at the end of a... month, he turns his tail to the south...
and as one possessed fins his way...
northward toward the Fraser and the...
spawning grounds.

It is while he is hanging round the... sound that he gets connected with the...
nicely-labeled cans that are waiting for him at Bellingham and Everett... and the rest of the cannery towns, for...
besides his habit of spawning in the...
Fraser the fishermen have learned another of his secrets and turned it to... tremendous commercial value. Unless... he is on his way to the spawning... grounds the sock-eye will turn off at...
the first obstruction he comes to and...
will follow it until it no longer is...
or until the water becomes too shallow... to accommodate him.

Knowing this, the fishermen drive...
rows of piles out into the channels... from the shores. Down these piles... they drop a fence of fine-mesh net, and...
at or near the sea end they fix a trap...
The salmon, nosing along for food... follows it, according to his instinct, and...
this instinct lands him finally, by the...
tens of thousands, in the traps.

Single fish are taken as many as...
50,000 fish a day, and the many...
traps are found at every vantage...
point along the sound and all along... the coast, the fish almost to the...
spawning grounds.

The lifting of the traps is worth a... long journey to see. A tug boat... warned about with specially constructed scoops, scurries up to the trap... and a steam brailer lifts the webbing... from the deeper water. The sea is... churned by the lifting of the net, and...
thrashing fish, but there is no escape... and they pour from the traps into the... scoops in countless thousands.

With its scoop the tug makes for... one of the canneries and there the... fish are processed. In these days every...
stage of preparation is by machinery...
The first stage is the cleaning of the... fish. The salmon are dumped into huge...
vats and there they are thoroughly scrubbed...
Then they are lifted in elevators to a... machine which cleans the fish by...
"chink." It is called the "iron chink" because... it takes the place of the Chinese... who once did the work by hand.

Here the head, tail and fins are removed and the fish thoroughly drawn...
It then goes into another vat for another washing.

From the cleaning tanks the salmon...
are carried by elevator to the cutting... machines, where they are cut into the... right size for all the cans, and carried... by elevator to the filling machines.

As the fish are fed into the filling... machines the cans drop automatically into... place from an elevator shaft that extends from the floor above. From the... filling machine the cans are carried... across a table to the weighing machines, where each can is weighed.

All overweights are sent back, but the... overweights are allowed to pass. From... here the filled cans are carried by...
elevator to the topping machines, where...
the tops are jammed on, and passing... through this machine, the cans are...
rolled, through narrowways through... tanks. In this process the cans are...
kept constantly turning until the tops... are thoroughly soldered on. After... the soldering machine the cans are... dropped back into cooling tanks. After...
cooling from the soldering machines...
each can is tested for leaks.

FLORIDA MAN WANTED TO KNOW THE TRUTH

Put Cooper's Claim to a Test and Proved Its Genuineness

L. T. Cooper, who recently gave a demonstration of his remedies at the Owl Drug Store in Los Angeles, advances the theory that most of the ills of mankind emanate from the stomach, and that it is only necessary to restore that organ to normal condition in order to enjoy good health. This theory is rapidly being accepted as correct by people in all parts of the country. Cooper's further claim that his New Discovery medicine will effect this change quickly and permanently is supported by a vast army of followers. One of those to put the Cooper theory and medicine to a test is F. W. Ross, living at 205 Irvine street, Orlando, Fla., and an honored resident of that community. Mr. Ross has made a statement for publication as correct by people in all parts of the country. ## The Inner Shrine

A Novel of Today

Once in a lifetime a brilliant star may flash across the sky, and it is interesting to note how quickly comes recognition and wide acclaim. With one accord readers have granted to "The Inner Shrine" those qualities which men have agreed to call great. Here, they say, is distinction, strength, and vigor, here is tenderness, sweetness, crystal clearness, and that certainty of touch which marks the master. Whether the writer is already famous or not, this is what they say of this great work:

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "A novel exciting more interest than any previous one for many a day. . . . It is quite on the cards that in these early years of the twentieth century we have seen the dawn of a new novelist of unquestioned power."

Never did so many readers beg for advance proofs when the story was running serially in HARPER'S. NOW the book is all here—AT LAST.

BREVITIES.

To "Liner" Advertisers: Dating from June 1st, classified advertising in the Times will be charged by the word at the present rate of 10 cents per word in the daily issue and 14c Sunday. These calculations covering a period of several months' development, show that the average number of words to the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1st. Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the word, and this regulation will not change the handling of the business. The present "want" ad rate has been in effect for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 14,000 daily and 60,000 Sunday, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States, rate considered, compares the Times in "want" ad service. The Times-Mirror Company.

Elects Officers and Hears About New Organization, Pacific Coast League.

At a special meeting of the Los Angeles Architectural Club last night the following-named were elected officers: A. F. Rosenheim, president; S. R. Harris, vice-president; E. The plans of the new organization, "The Pacific Coast League of Architects," were explained by M. A. Vinson, the business manager. The league stands for promotion of educational advantages for the younger draughtsmen, through the architectural club, and also plans to have a large architectural exhibition in Los Angeles in November. This is to be one of four exhibitions on the Coast this fall and winter. The Architectural Club voted to join the organization.

A committee was appointed to locate a building that could be turned into a clubhouse. Competitions will be held for designs for furnishing it.

ANXIOUS TO GET GEMS.

Owners of Stolen Stones Valued by Police at Eight Hundred Dollars Offer Thousand Reward.

R. W. Windley of No. 2231 Cambridge avenue, has offered a reward of $1000 for the return of diamonds stolen from his residence by a daylight burglar yesterday a week ago.

Estimates on the value of the gems range from $300 to $6000. They were not heirlooms, but members of the family had owned them for many years and had become greatly attached to the sparklers.

A solitaire ring of one and one-fourth carats, two rings set with sapphires and diamonds, and a fourth of turquoise and diamonds, together with a small diamond horseshoe, set with fourteen little stones, comprised the loot.

One of the sapphire rings was set with two diamonds of three-quarters carat each.

The estimate placed on the jewelry by the police department at the time of the theft was $300 or a little more. Members of the family, however, fix a much higher value, and have advertised the large reward for their return, with no questions asked. The police have posted notice of the reward in the department bulletin, and close watch is kept on the pawnshops.

BUILDING TEN MILES.

Pacific Electric Will Open Rich Section With Line Between Huntington Beach and Delhi.

The Pacific Electric yesterday put a large force grading for the line from Huntington Beach to Delhi, where it will connect with the Santa Ana line. Work is to be rushed on this ten-mile stretch, which will be completed by July 1, when the sugar beet season will open. Primarily the line is built to facilitate the handling of freight from the California Sugar Company's large factory at Delhi, but it will develop a very rich section between the two points named. The contractors are moving large cuttings to augment the force already at work.

The completion of the branch will give a double train service daily between Santa Ana and Huntington Beach.

SNOW CAUSES BURNING.

Man Unable to Escape from Blazing Cabin Because of Deep Drift Outside.

BAKERSFIELD, May 10.—What are supposed to be the remains of J. Lafrance, an old watchman employed by the Union Lumber Company to guard its property, have been found among the ashes of his cabin on Breckenridge Mountain, forty miles from Bakersfield.

Lafrance had been missing since February, and the deep snow made search for him impossible earlier. It was supposed he was merely snowbound at the camp until yesterday, when the greivous discovery of the burned cabin was made by two men, who composed one of the searching parties. The fire is supposed to have been accidental, and the man may have been unable to escape because of the snow-drift outside the cabin.

CUT LEVEE TO SAVE CROP.

Farmers Trying to Drain Backed Up Water from Grain Lands into San Joaquin River.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

STOCKTON, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The report reached Stockton this afternoon, that the farmers along the French Camp Slough would cut the levees in several places to allow the water, which has backed up from reclamation districts, to flow into the San Joaquin. No. 17, to escape into the San Joaquin, in hopes of saving their crops.

The break in the main levee on the river has permitted a large volume of water to run into the 16,000 acre tract, pricing No. 17, and it has covered additional land on which there is a large crop of grain. By draining the surplus at once into the river at other points it is possible to save much grain.

It was believed Saturday it would be possible to close the break, but to-night information from the scene is that this cannot be accomplished before the property is under water. The loss will be the heaviest ever known for this time of the year. Today Robert Finney drove a horse into the water while trying to reach the San Joaquin bridge from Lathrop, and narrowly escaped with his life. The horse was drowned and the buggy swept away.

BUSY ON A BRYAN DREAM.

Texas Legislature May Sit All Summer to Enact Bank Deposit Guaranty Law.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

AUSTIN (Tex.), May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After having held two special sessions the State Legislature to-night is in danger of being kept at the Capitol all summer, according to the threats of Gov. Campbell, who today declared he will continue calling special sessions of the Legislature until it passed a satisfactory bank deposit guaranty bill in accordance with Bryan's policy. This the Legislature refuses to do and many members believe that they will go home anyway, in which case the Governor will have to put members under arrest to obtain a quorum.

The Legislature has considered no less than ten guaranty bills, all of which have been rejected. A joint committee tonight is for the last time conferring on a new bank guaranty bill, but there is a hopeless deadlock.

CLOVIS DEVELOPMENT.

FRESNO, May 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first move to ascertain if oil in paying quantities actually exists under the ground near the town of Clovis, was made today, when articles of incorporation were filed by the Clovis Oil Company. Fresno is to be the principal place of business of the new company, which is capitalized for $100,000, with $25,000 actually subscribed. The directors are C. E. Boyd of Hanford, J. S. Knight, T. W. Pond and A. G. Egan of Fresno, and L. L. Evered of Clovis. Lumber for the derrick and other necessary buildings were shipped today, and as soon as the structures are in place the actual work of drilling will begin. Over a year ago oil in abundance was found in the Shafter water well, about two and a half miles northeast of Clovis.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE In the Courts and Offices

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

A City Auditor's plan to consolidate the collecting force of the Tax License Collector with a police force is scheduled to cause trouble today's Council meeting.

Age Bordwell yesterday heard the case of Marie Paure against Paure, the ground being desertion. Paure disappeared twenty-one years ago, and his wife, thinking him dead, has lived with another man and had children; the object of the action is to legitimize the children.

AT THE CITY HALL.

LICENSE CHANGE STARTS WAR.

EDITOR AND TAX COLLECTOR MAY LOCK HORNS.

On to Create New Police License Bureau and Deprive Collector of Deputies Key to Trouble—Dishman Ready to Enforce License Ordinance—Position Vacant.

War between the City Auditor and Tax and License Collector is expected to result from changes in the system of license collections which the Auditor will advocate before the Council today.

The changes suggested by him have with the approval of the Mayor several Councilmen and mean the argument of the sphere of usefulness of the Police License Inspector, a position created at the urgent request of the Auditor two months ago and which James A. Craig has been filling.

His position is to be recreated as the chief of a bureau of license inspection, with the immediate supervision of the Police License Inspector, a position created at the urgent request of the Auditor two months ago and which James A. Craig has been filling.

Inspector it is planned to employ six license collectors, to be employed by the Tax and License Collector, and assign them for duty in new bureau. This does not necessarily mean that Craig will continue as chief inspector for that point, it is not a part of the plan.

For a long time the Auditor has maintained that the Police License Inspector is not a police duty. He has held that the collectors employed the Tax and License Collector have no police duty, and that a direct inspection from their quarter would add tens of thousands to the city's receipts from taxes.

I picked seven green men," says the Auditor, "and they turned in over $100 in four weeks and added 1000 names to the license books in the city's office. But we could not keep up and until the Police License Inspector was appointed there was nothing." Warren says the result of his work with the Tax Collector's office was to add 1000 names to the license books in the city's office. But we could not keep up and until the Police License Inspector was appointed there was nothing.

ADVICE COMMITTEE LOSING MEMBERS?

AFTER obtaining the apparent unconditional surrender of the Board of Supervisors, "horse, gun and boot," there appears to be a disposition on the part of some of the members of the Advisory Committee of the Good Roads Association to "disappear and go peacefully to their homes," which was the attitude of the famous minute men of Concord and Lexington after they roundly whipped the British.

The subcommittee which was delegated to scout duty in the Supervisors' chamber is about to be decimated. It consisted of five members—William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Los Angeles aqueduct; Homer Hamlin, City Engineer; A. F. Fleming, secretary of the Harbor Commission and of the Consolidation Association; S. A. Butler, president of the Municipal Waterways Association; and F. W. Blanchard.

The latter two members remain at their posts, but the other three have important tasks which may necessitate their resignations.

Engineer Mulholland has the best of excuses for not serving on the committee. His time is fully occupied planning the magnificent Owens River project, and he feels that he cannot afford to neglect his duties in order to help solve the engineering problems of road-building.

City Engineer Hamlin states that he has not thought much about the Advisory Committee, although he was selected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Supervisor May.

He is also a busy man in the service of the city, and moreover, he received any notice to attend just special committee meeting. Secretary Fleming, while an ardent advocate of good roads, feels that he should give his time to consolidation. This matter is coming rapidly to a head, and the committee of which he is secretary is soon to make a report.

FEELS HANDICAPPED. He stated last night that he feels there is much to be done in regard to good roads, but he intimated that the subcommittee is handicapped by lack of information prior to the Supervisors' meetings.

"I am willing to do my part as a good citizen," said he, "but we feel the lack of expert engineering advice. Propositions are advanced at the meetings of the Supervisors which we have not had time to work out. I feel we have a duty to perform to the public, but I cannot see how we can do it without passing any advice."

Without passing any advice, criticisms upon the methods employed by the Highway Commission, he said, it would help the cause if we had some unbiased expert engineering advice.

Fleming said that it may be necessary for him to resign from the committee, owing to his increasing duties in the Consolidation Commission.

Butler stated last night that he has before the commission, Warren says Gardner, who was intoxicated, seized him without cause in a restaurant, and he was arrested and taken to his head against a patrol box at Fourth and Main streets, bruising him badly. Warren says he felt to the sidewalk and the policeman knocked his head on the sidewalk until he became unconscious. He says he did not resist Gardner, who is a powerful man.

Warren admits he had been drinking, but says there was no reason for the policeman taking him violently from the restaurant.

It was because of the scene made by Gardner at this time that a mob formed and threatened to lynch him. Warren says the patrolman was in citizens' garb and wore no star.

The Mayor did not say what the other charges were. They were brought to him yesterday by Mr. Letts.

The charges were referred to the Chief for investigation.

Judges of Flowers. Park Superintendent Morley has been named as one of the judges at the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society and State Florists society flower show at the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco, October 14-16. With him Robert Armstrong, gardener for Arthur Letts, and William Hertrich, gardener for H. E. Huntington, will also serve.

Addition to Substation. Mayor Alexander, the City Auditor and the Board of Public Works visited the University Police Substation yesterday afternoon to investigate the need of an addition to the building to the Police Commission took hold of its present quarters, and the addition will be used for the next city budget.

After Big Convention. The Mayor has sent a telegram to the convention of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, now in session at Atlantic City, inviting it to come to this city for its biennial session in 1911.

MONROVIA LOSES. Appeal to Superior Court Knocks Out Its Little Tariff Ordinance on Laundrymen.

It wasn't the dollar that S. M. Barber kicked about so much and refused to pay to the city of Monrovia. Just plain principle induced him to submit rather than give up that 100 cents to City Marshal Miller.

Of course the Marshal ran Barber in on the charge of refusing to pay the exacted under an ordinance from all laundry wagon drivers doing business within the city limits for an outside laundry.

When arraigned before the Recorder in Monrovia, the Marshal gave his testimony and the court fined Barber $1 and costs. The fine was $1.

But if the city officials of the mountain town expected to get that $5 from Barber they were mistaken. Barber took an appeal to the Superior Court and yesterday Judge Willis rendered an opinion which is calculated to make Monrovia pino, new pino.

This reverses the judgment of the Recorder's court on the ground that it is an imposition for the city to impose a fee on outside laundry wagon drivers, and is "repugnant to the various provisions of the Constitution of the United States and the State of California."

In other words, Monrovia was experimenting with a little tariff law of her own.

Sherry and Egg for You. Five or six sherry wine is a tonic and sold for $1.00 to $2.00 a gallon, at Old Plantation Distilling Co., 124-126 S. Broadway. Phone Home 1023. Home 1441.

GARDNER AGAINST GARDNER. As a result of his arrest by Patrolman H. L. Gardner, Howard Warren, a gardener employed by Arthur Letts, has filed charges against Gardner and has not heard of any resignations from the committee, although he intimated that the two engineers may not be able to attend the sessions. "I feel the need of expert advice on various problems of road construction," said he. "Of course, I have no desire to bring pressure to bear upon our distinguished engineers who have done an inestimable service to Los Angeles. They have much to do, I know, and yet, if it were possible for Mulholland and Hamlin to be present at the meetings of our committee and the Supervisors, they could give us much valuable assistance."

GOOD ROADS.

ADVICE COMMITTEE LOSING MEMBERS?

MEET TOGETHER. For the first time the Board of Supervisors held a meeting in conjunction with the sub-committee of the Advisory Committee of the Good Roads Association yesterday, albeit the letting of contracts in connection with the highway system by contract.

One contract was let, that for the concrete bridge across the Verdugo wash on the San Fernando road above West Glendale. It went to the Union Iron Works of Los Angeles for $375, with extra for extra work. The company is the lowest of three bidders.

Then the meeting resolved itself into a squabble in regard to the important question of whether the 1,000,000 work order be made a condition for the proposed highway, shall be dug from a quarry owned by the county and crushed by machinery bought by the county, or by contract.

There were a number of quarry owners present, all of whom made offers of the finest rock in the world. "One of them announced that he would give the county a 'run for your money,' he'd supply it, he said."

What part of the system will we leave unbuilt?" asked Fleming, substantially, of Daggett. "Daggett said he would build the system will be built, and started to explain."

"Well, I'm through with you," suddenly said Fleming. "Sit down, sit down," and Daggett was so surprised that he did sit down.

Fleming said that he was in a position to buy a quarry and installing machinery, after questioning Engineer Loder of the Highway Commission in any manner.

Thursday to enable the engineer to bring in some estimates of cost.

WAR OF WORDS. There was a controversy between Mr. Fleming and Mr. Daggett which almost degenerated into a war of words. Fleming was aggressive. He seemed to take it for granted that the Highway Commission cannot build at the miles of highways it proposes with the money raised on the bonds.

"What part of the system will we leave unbuilt?" asked Fleming, substantially, of Daggett. "Daggett said he would build the system will be built, and started to explain."

AT THE COURTHOUSE. SON IS ACCUSED BY HIS MOTHER.

SHE SAYS HE'S INCOMPETENT; FRIENDS DENY IT.

Case of Henry Scher Promises to Be Interesting—Supposed Sweetheart Will Testify in His Behalf. Witnesses Vouch for Mental Soundness of Defendant.

The case of Henry Scher occupied the attention of Judge Rives yesterday afternoon. His mother, Mrs. Ada A. Bram, declares that he is an incompetent, and seeks the appointment of a trustee or guardian. This is contested by friends of Scher, who have rallied to his support. The hearing will be resumed this morning.

The first witness today will be Miss Tilly Geisla, the sweetheart of the young man, according to the testimony of some of the witnesses. She is certain to do all in her power to clear her friend of the charge of mental unsoundness. She spent all yesterday afternoon in the courtroom, and was much disappointed when she was not called. Her mother gave strong testimony in favor of her mental soundness of the defendant.

The most interesting witness of the afternoon was Mrs. E. B. Conoley, 1147 South Olive street, at whose home the Geislas spent some time, and where Scher kept company with Miss Tilly. Mrs. Conoley, a traveling jewelry salesman, and she has been a warm friend of the accused. She testified that when Scher brought the action against his mother for $10,000 damages on account of his alleged abduction to San Francisco several years ago, she furnished security demanded by the attorney bringing the complaint for his fees. When asked if she did not think that her son was going rather home to a half of a young man she hardly knew, the witness declared that she is a friend of the poor and helpless, and is willing to assist in cases of real need.

Mrs. Conoley also confessed that she had written a letter to Katie Kelle, a friend of Scher's, who was supposed to be possessed of information that would be of assistance to Scher in his action against his mother, stating that she would see that he paid all necessary expenses and a fair allowance for her services if she were called upon to testify in his behalf.

The witness indignantly denied that she had furnished the money for the damage action on the agreement that she was to have a part of the sum received from Mrs. Bram. She also denied that she had assisted Scher in the pending suit, and said that the only time she had ever received a favor at his hands was when he was taken from their home to the Orphanum in Mrs. Bram's auto, driven by Scher.

Mrs. Nellie A. Potts, wife of a detective, who was alleged to have been connected with the charged abduction of Scher, testified, but nothing of importance was said.

I. H. Day, a contractor of this city, said that he had employed the defendant for some time as a carpenter, and that he considered him an excellent workman, and entirely competent.

Mrs. Geisla had employed the young man in building two apartment-houses in San Francisco, and in her opinion he was not only mentally bright but also a good workman.

ROMANCE OF FRANCE. ENDS IN COURTS HERE.

Jean Paure, a relative of the deceased President of the French Republic, was in court yesterday in a divorce action brought by Marie Paure in Judge Bordwell's court yesterday.

The story began in 1885, when the plaintiff, who was but 15 years old, was wooed and won by one of the young and handsome French lads of Chabotte in Cantonment Bonnet, Hyes Alpes. They had been lovers from early childhood. Soon after the ceremony they came to America to make their way in the world. Jean was an expert potter, making good wages. They prospered several years, and in 1893 the lady, who was then December 1 of that year Jean disappeared, and from that day to this the wife has not heard a word from him.

It was in evidence that a countryman of the man had seen him in Oregon and San Francisco several times, the last time about a year ago. He had been seen in Oregon and San Francisco several times, the last time about a year ago. He had been seen in Oregon and San Francisco several times, the last time about a year ago.

Her husband gone, the young wife, believing him dead, became enamored of the French colonel, and they have lived together as husband and wife since. It was to allow them to have the marriage ceremony that the action for divorce was brought.

Paure left Los Angeles in the morning, but he had accumulated anything, but it is stated that Mrs. Paure and the father of her son are worth an estate of $250,000. The latter is in the salmon business.

Judge Bordwell heard the evidence and reserved his decision. In an affidavit of the status of Mrs. Paure in taking up with another man, Paure was in evidence that in any event, he had been abandoned totally for some years.

FISHER OBJECTS. GIVES REASONS WHY.

It is not a rule for actions brought for divorce on the ground of cruel treatment to be contested, but the exception was furnished in Judge James' court yesterday, when Robert Fisher put up a stout defense against the allegations of the plaintiff filed by his wife, Jessie Fisher.

Daggett himself nor his wife had accumulated anything, but it is stated that Mrs. Paure and the father of her son are worth an estate of $250,000. The latter is in the salmon business.

Judge Bordwell heard the evidence and reserved his decision. In an affidavit of the status of Mrs. Paure in taking up with another man, Paure was in evidence that in any event, he had been abandoned totally for some years.

FISHER OBJECTS. GIVES REASONS WHY.

It is not a rule for actions brought for divorce on the ground of cruel treatment to be contested, but the exception was furnished in Judge James' court yesterday, when Robert Fisher put up a stout defense against the allegations of the plaintiff filed by his wife, Jessie Fisher.

Daggett himself nor his wife had accumulated anything, but it is stated that Mrs. Paure and the father of her son are worth an estate of $250,000. The latter is in the salmon business.

Patterson. For this Mrs. Hunt asked $1000 damages, and on account of the loss of employment, and injury to her feelings, reputation and business, she asked $4000 more—$5000 in all. She was awarded the amount above given, and the plaintiff was thus vindicated from the baseless accusation that she is of unsound mind.

HARPER'S SUITS. THEY ARE DISMISSED.

Attorneys for ex-Mayor Harper yesterday moved the dismissal of the two libel suits brought against the Evening Express for $100,000 each. Attorney Apple also has dismissed the case brought by Harper against former City Prosecutor Thomas Lee Woolwine for $50,000.

The cases of Harbert W. Lewis, B. Woodill and Edward B. Turfs against the Evening Express and Woolwine are still on the docket. The case of Turfs against the Evening Express was up in Department Five to be set yesterday, but was continued.

BURGLARY CHARGE. DECLARED INSANE. The following commitments were ordered by the Lunacy Commission yesterday: Warren Camp, Harriet J. Selato, Jacob Cipovsky, Sherwood Gibson and Louis Avelis.

PROPOSED ANNULMENT. Mary H. Tipton filed an action against George W. Tipton in the Superior Court yesterday, asking for the annulment of their marriage. She claims they were married in Los Angeles March 5, 1906, and that Tipton had wife living at the time, from whom he had never been divorced.

ASK ADOPTION. Joseph H. Porter and Edith Alice Porter have made application to the courts for the privilege of adopting John Kating Merrick, the 20-year-old son of Edith Alice Porter and Calvin Merrick, who were divorced in Ventura county November 1, 1894. THE INFERIOR COURTS. MANY INVOLVED WITH NEGRO.

CHARGES AGAINST FIVE MAY BE THE RESULT.

Hannibal Spencer, With the Concealed Diamonds, Makes Trouble That Got Others Into Trouble With the Post—Two Held for Superior Court.

Hannibal Spencer, alias "Cannonball," a chocolate-bred little negro, who was arrested more than a week ago on a charge of vagrancy and who was later found to have diamonds valued at $2000 concealed in his clothes, has caused the police department much worry in the past few days, when he was taken into custody.

Charges against five others will probably result from statements made by Spencer.

Great $19,000 Skill Contest

You Can Win a Piano Free

Every Person Entering This Contest According to the Rules Given Will Receive a Valuable Prize, or Premium, According to Merit of Same. There Is No Guessing—No Chance—No Expense to You.

Contest Will Close Tuesday, May 18th

Why This Offer is Made

For the purpose of indelibly impressing upon the minds of the people of Los Angeles and the Great Southwest the number of our new building, in which we are now permanently established, we have determined upon an offer which will not only accomplish the object desired, but will also bring to our doors thousands of our citizens, besides making hundreds of homes happy.

We want these three figures—523—to become familiar to every school child in this section of the country, and our determination to have it so has resulted in the following remarkable offer.

This is a simple test of skill, and the sole conditions are that the three figures "523" and the word "Broadway" in this form—523 Broadway—shall be written in the two spaces 2x3 inches each just as many times as the space will hold. You can use any piece of paper you choose this size and when ready it can be pasted in or pinned on the given space. Then fill out the information blank below. This latter is for the purpose of enabling us to know just how many homes are without instruments. There are no limits or restrictions as to the number of contestants in a family, though only one prize can be awarded in any one family.

How to Prepare Your Paper in This Test of Skill

Take a piece of writing paper cut the size of the front show windows of the ground floor, as they appear in the diagram on this page (exclusive of the doorway). Then with a fine pen write only the address: 523 BROADWAY, as many times as possible on your paper. Then cut out the information blank printed herewith below the diagram, fill it out as indicated by the blanks. State what instrument you have, if any, and if you can, give correct names and addresses of two or more of your friends, neighbors or acquaintances whom you believe might wish a piano or player piano. Mail your paper and information blank to the Fitzgerald Music Company in plain sealed envelope, marked in lower left-hand corner "Contest Department," and the number of times you have written the address in the spaces.

Rules Governing Contest and Awards

The envelopes containing the answers to contest as submitted by the contestants will be opened for record a short time previous to the date on which awards are to be made. The answers will then be examined in the presence of three impartial judges, gentlemen of the highest integrity selected from well-known Los Angeles newspaper or advertising men, and who are in no way connected with the music industry, whose decisions will be final and irrevocable.

If you are fortunate in getting one of our Credit Orders as an award and already have a piano, the order may be disposed of to some one less fortunate, providing such transfer is properly endorsed by us.

There are no limits or restrictions as to the number of contestants in any family, but only one prize will be given in such family.

Only one Credit Order can be applied on the purchase of any one instrument.

None of these prizes will be awarded to any one employed by our House or connected in any way with the sale of musical instruments.

For Everybody

We trust that every man, woman and child in this entire trade territory will participate in this great test of skill. There are no hampering conditions of any kind or character. There is no entrance fee to pay. There is no obligation of any kind. In order to establish our new location permanently in the minds of the people we are bearing the expenses of this contest and placing in the hands of the people themselves the money which otherwise would be devoted to a costly newspaper advertising campaign.

Note

We are one of the largest and oldest music houses in the Southwest, and carry a very large line of standard and popular makes of Pianos, Piano Players and Grands. We refer you to the First National Bank of our city as to our financial strength and the value of our guarantee which accompanies every Piano sold by us.

ALVARADO HAS SOLD HIS MINE.

Holders of Lease Exercise Their Option.

Price Not Public, But Half Million Cleared.

Clara Is Not Closed, But Is Quite Active.

Word was received here yesterday that the famous Palmilla mine of Peñoles, owned by the Alvarado family, has been sold to the Chamber of Mines, who have had a lease and option on it for some time past. The mine is not made public, but it is said that Don Pedro will have about $1,000,000 clear, while his debts are about $500,000. It is expected that the mine will be sold for $1,500,000.

Clara Is Not Closed. A report that the Clara mine had been closed is denied by Vice-President J. Carrigan, who returned from there last week. He says that 150-odd men are working; that owing to the completion of assessments on various claims and the failure of machinery to arrive as fast as expected, it was necessary to lay off twenty men, and that the mine is now working again.

MINES AND MINING.

completed, and the seventy-five-ton reverberatory is on the ground; the fifty-ton converter plant is looked for every day, and has been shipped from the factory; eight cars of lumber, machinery, etc., were on the siding, and bills of lading were received for eleven cars when Mr. Carrigan left. Eighty double mule teams were hauling freight. On the Swansea group crosscutting was in ninety feet on the 360-foot level, all in ore averaging 4 per cent. copper, says Mr. Carrigan, and $8 in gold. At the 400 the crosscut has run 110 feet in ore a little more in copper than above, and the same in gold. One shaft on the Swansea is down eighty-five feet, all in ore averaging 8 per cent. copper and 17 gold. The triple-compartment working shaft, equipped with 120-horse-power hoist, is being pushed, and is down 115 feet, all in ore.

Mr. Carrigan states there is enough pay ore in sight to run the 450-ton smelter for the next three years without any more development. The company is assured of a railroad from Bouse to the mines being built by the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix or by others, if the company named does not move. The vice-president is well satisfied with the outlook.

Chamber of Mines Maps. The Chamber of Mines has received from the Clasen Map Company of Denver a copy of its latest map of Arizona, just published. The chamber has also on file the Handbook of Mexico, late map of that republic, issued by the Bureau of American Republics, and expects soon to have from the Postoffice Department maps of the star routes in California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah and New Mexico, all of which will be on file for the use of miners and the public.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

NEWPORT BAY STARTS THIRD.

PIONEER IN BEACH FIELD IS BUSY AGAIN.

Two Wells Failed, One Water, Other Dry—Good Outlook at Kellerman Well—Balboa Will Try to Shut Off Water Next Week—Tide-water and Fairview.

The Newport Bay Oil Company has abandoned both Nos. 1 and 2 in the Newport field, and will sink a third well, a short distance from No. 1. Yesterday it pulled the casing from No. 2, and will place the machinery in the derrick erected for the new hole to spud the first of next week. The company has been unfortunate. Its first well struck oil at 2600 feet, thought to be about 30 gravity. It pumped water and oil, and while the top oil was very heavy, that saved ran 23. At 2400 feet it had a cave-in, which bent the light-weight pipe used and rendered it impossible to handle the oil. Then it brought in No. 2 dry at 3450 feet. In this, some dry, but no oil-producing sand was passed through. The abandonment of both and the starting of the new well was the result. Standard rigging and heavy casing are to be used.

ROOSEVELT AND TIO ALECK.

"Roosevelt Boomed" for Mayor of New York is the latest political pronouncement from the metropolis. There is involved a question of his first acquiring a residence in the city. It would be vastly more politic, not to say sensational, for Col. Roosevelt to acquire a residence in Los Angeles and become Mayor thereof. By the beard of the Prophet, we Republicans mean to have the beard of the Goat, to wit, Tio Aleck.

MORE POLICEMEN.

There seems to be a general consensus of opinion on the part of those who have carefully looked into the situation that Los Angeles needs a large increase in her police force. The city has spread out so extensively that there are not nearly enough patrolmen to cover the territory; indeed, with the present force it is only possible to attempt to patrol a comparatively small section of the great city, leaving large areas to care for themselves. If the criminals and lawless elements are to be kept under control they must be made to feel that the police department is amply manned for grappling with them and that they cannot take any chances. A notion that the police force is inadequate, instilled into the minds of offenders, encourages defiance of law. "God is on the side of the strongest battalions," said Napoleon. God is on the side of a strong police force, it might be said—though 'twould be better to invert it and say that a strong police force is on the side of God; a strong police force insures order and respect for law and authority. This matter will come before the City Council, on the initiative of Chief Dismann, and is worthy of the hospitable attention of the Councilmen. The financial end of the proposition must be considered by the Council; but we do not believe the city can afford NOT to increase the police force.

RAISIN DAY AND ITS LESSONS.

The California raisin crop of the last season amounted to something like 100,000,000 pounds. The consumption of raisins takes place for the most part during the holiday seasons, with less use, strange to say, during the following months in the dead of winter, when green vegetables and fresh fruits are scarce.

Whatever affected the demand for raisins last year, more than half the crop remains unused. The Times showed recently that the consumption of raisins and currants in this country is per capita less than one-fifth of that in England. It is not important to inquire closely why this is. We are less educated to the use of this particular fruit than the people of Great Britain. Fresh fruit is cheaper and more plentiful with us than with them. The important matter is the inquiry how the taste of the people shall be stimulated sufficiently to use twice as many raisins per capita as the present consumption amounts to.

It is but a few years back that the prune growers of this State were face to face with conditions similar to those now causing anxiety among the raisin-grape producers. We had a great campaign at that time to stimulate the demand for dried prunes. This crop in cured condition amounts in pounds to about the same as raisins. The consumption is so much below the production that prices are unremunerative, and a heavy carry-over is the usual rule. At the time of the greatest glut fine California prunes were sold as low as a cent or two per pound at home. For some years a good many producers have been digging up their trees and turning the land to some more remunerative crop.

The orange crop of California this year will run to considerably above 25,000 carloads of about 384 boxes to the car. This will give us a crop of approximately 10,000,000 boxes. As a box of oranges contains about sixty pounds net weight, we have six times the amount of oranges that we produce of prunes or raisins, measured by avoirdupois; but as it takes about three pounds of green prunes to make one of dried fruit, and about the same proportion of raisins, the orange crop weighs about as much as the other two combined. Discarding the indigestible portion of the orange, the comparison will be a little less unfavorable from the point of view of weight.

The glutting of the market with California prunes, followed by a similar difficulty as to raisins, and the comparative tonnage of oranges, are referred to here to suggest the necessity of keeping up an everlasting campaign for the purpose of educating the people to use more of these as well as of all kinds of fruit. The population of the United States is increasing at the rate of about a million and a half a year, which is an increase of less than 2 per cent. The orange crop of this year promises to run perhaps 3000 cars more than that of last year, or an increase of a little over 10 per cent. If the orange crop in the future should increase at the same ratio as shown by this year compared with last, in ten years we would be running far ahead of the gain in population. Now, in spite of the larger shipments this year, the markets have been good, because of a splendid advertising campaign and because this largest crop of oranges ever produced in California was offset by one of the smallest apple crops recently known in the East. If we could teach the people of the country to use oranges, raisins and prunes as freely as apples, the problem would be solved.

The increase in the production of oranges as compared with that of population would be discouraging if we did not reflect that California oranges have not yet been put within the reach of nearly all the people of the country. Ordinarily apples sell at much less, measured by cubic feet, than oranges in the eastern markets. Last year the reverse was true. The Times published some months ago an article on the orange market and illustrated it with a photograph taken of the exterior of a grocery store in a town in Iowa. This picture showed three measures, a half-peck, peck and bushel, filled with apples, and a card stuck in each package giving the price. With it went similar measures filled with California oranges, and a card bearing the price of the citrus fruit, which was less than that of the apples. Yet all the apples in the United States went into consumption in spite of the price.

Now, the people of the United States must be appealed to, from the hygienic standpoint. We all live too much on meat and starch foods. Wheat, corn, potatoes, beef, mutton and pork are the six great staples in the United States, and, indeed, in pretty nearly the whole north temperate zone. We have here really only two types of food. The cereals and potatoes are composed mostly of starch, and there is little difference in the effect on health and life in the three kinds of meat. If we turn to the hills that flesh is heir to we shall find those which concern the digestive organs, with the supplementary functions which carry off the waste, to constitute the great bulk of diseases. Undoubtedly our table habits are largely responsible for this hygienic condition among our people. If leguminous foods and fruits were to replace one-half of the starch and meat foods we consume now, the health of the people would be greatly improved, their mental and physical vigor would be increased and life would be prolonged.

Apples, dried prunes, figs, raisins and oranges lead all other fruits as food for human beings in their value as suppliers of life and safeguards against disease. The person who uses freely the three leading fruit products of California will be very little troubled with indigestion or constipation or any of the other diseases which attack the stomach and allied organs of the body, including those which carry away the waste.

WHAT NEED OF A "CITY MACHINIST?"

Let all low-grade fruit, practically refuse. There are ways for utilizing low-grade oranges, raisin grapes and prunes. By resorting to these secondary processes we would eliminate a very large amount of fruit now offered in its direct form. A carload of fine fruit sent to eastern markets seldom fails to return a fair profit to the producer and the shipper. The cost of transporting our products is one of the hardest factors in the problem to solve. It costs as much to carry East a carload of low-grade fruit as to carry one of fancy quality. The losses to shipper and grower come almost entirely on the low-grade product. But the worst effect comes from the influence the poor fruit has in beating down the market for the good.

"CHASING BUGS."

Cartoonists, humorists and jokesmiths generally have immemorially taken delight in the kindly people who wander over the green hillsides of spring and the golden meadows of summer chasing bugs, and eke the butterfly.

It is the custom to point out these gentle folk as a species of harmless creatures, pleasantly irresponsible in their actions, a little loose in their upper stories and entitled to the guardianship of all the rest of us.

But we are wrong in our diagnosis of the case. The naturalist is the sanest man in the world. He is the one man among us who gets the best out of life. He finds himself in a wonderful world and with only one small lifetime in which to explore that world. He has discovered that there is vastly more for his consideration than men and women. In fact, he is apt to find that it is only men and women who are dull and uninteresting.

Wherefore the wise man sallies out to the wide spaces, to the great hills and the deep-hushed valleys; he wanders by the mountain streams and is brother to the sun, moon and stars. He visits the things of the wild in their wonderful cities and towns, talks with the builder ant, the busy, marvelous bee, the birds as they rear their young, and the squirrel as he gathers his winter store.

And what does this man learn? More than we learn, brethren, in our stuffy towns, bartering and trading in our sordid marts, missing the beauty, the miracle and the wonder of things.

Here is California, glowing in the glory of God's smile. What do we know of it? We know so little, indeed, that when we shall look back upon it from the streets of the New Jerusalem we shall regret, even there, that we once had it, like a lute, in our hands and never learned to play on it.

IN DARKEST CHICAGO.

Chicago seems to be placed on the farthest edge of civilization. Her benighted people are not only in danger of life and limb at all moments of the day or night from flying chimney-tops and bricks hurled through the air by hurricanes, but they are scared by apparitions coming from the outside world.

The other night, just as the people of the Windy City were beginning to venture to peep out of their cellars to see if the bricks had stopped drifting through the air, they dodged back, frightened by the appearance of a couple of balloons sailing over the city. The occurrence was so unusual and strange in Chicago that it was thought worth while to telegraph it all over the world, evidently under the impression that balloons were unknown outside of Chicago as well as inside.

For two or three years past the most dominant notes in the news of the day have been stories about flying machines in various parts of the Old and New worlds. Men have been winning fame in making airships, and imperial cabinets have been at their wits' ends trying to puzzle out what the effect of airships is to be in the next war. Merchants are busy figuring whether merchandise is to be carried across continents and seas by aerial navigation, replacing that of the high seas—and in spite of all this we have the Chicago people tucking into cellars at the sight of two ordinary balloons.

Why do not some of the former Chicagoans, who are now citizens of Los Angeles, write to the newspapers in that city and to their friends and advise them that balloons are not visitants from other worlds beyond the stars, but common, every-day affairs? Why, here in Los Angeles the astonishment of a Sunday is when the sky holds only about eleven balloons. Aerial navigation is becoming so common with us here that we may expect in no long time to see whole fleets of flying machines dodging one another through the skies of a clear day. We are thinking here of adopting a new style of umbrella or wearing a metal helmet to protect ourselves from the unloading of ballast out of balloons, which cross and recross the sky at any hour of the open day.

modern devices, so as not to have the wits that a cyclone has left in our heads scared out by two balloons.

FOR A UNION STATION.

The Times is glad to see a revival of interest in the subject of a union railroad station for Los Angeles. Present facilities are far behind the requirements of city and traffic, and the need of improvement is urgent. The old "Arcade" is a monument of stagnation, a thing that neither the great railroad interests nor the city can afford to have perpetuated. The citizens, as well as the railroad managers, have some voice in this business, for the Southern Pacific is under obligation to bring forth a new depot in return for street space surrendered by the municipality with this understanding, fully expressed. The best time for beginning this important work is now—the sooner the better for all concerned. Every month's delay will add to the obstacles. Every business man informed as to railroad and financial conditions is aware of the enormous pressure for improvements made upon the great railroad corporations and the difficulties of achieving them all within the desired time; but as the business of the city is steadily growing and the district around the S. P. properties is all the time closing its industrial tentacles upon the tracks, it is obvious that the corporation will find it easier to expand now than at any time in the future. A great union station involves many changes, and the enterprise has complications that time cannot fail to vex. The civic bodies and committees are doing the railroad a good turn by their work of promotion.

BY COLETTE.

A planet shines to guide the hands that write
And on the dreaming mind to shed new light.

Mercury and Uranus, in parallel declination with the moon, unite in exercising mildly fortunate sway over persons who write with pen or machine, lawyers, printers, authors, ministers, orators, agents, school teachers, craftsmen, antiquarians, collectors, lecturers, librarians, and any students or workers in unusual fields or those who have "hobbies."

It should be a fortuitous time for any transactions touching art or science, however remotely. The sign is unusually promising for advertisers and for others who desire to make their commodities known through circular or other means of publicity.

Engage men for office or shop work today, or set hands to work on contract. To those engaged in artistic or otherwise creative work the signs promise a day permeated with the influence that makes for vivid imagination, scope of ideas and constructive skill.

There will be a tendency emphasizing the habit of those who dabble in things or hesitate at decisions. Let them resist the ill power. Those with this birthdate are under signs that indicate power for foresight and spirituality. There are also denoted exactness and persistence, but a possible carelessness about finance.

Children born on this day are under a sign indicating practical ingenuity and genius in tasks requiring a combination of imaginative power and constructive skill.

They may be prone to play with their work, however, and to leave it before it is finished.

MEN AND THINGS OVER THE SEA.

British Inheritance Tax.

From graduated death duties, or inheritance taxes, the British government annually collects from $90,000,000 to $95,000,000, or about one-fifth of the total internal revenue of $470,000,000. This amount is drawn from more than 87,000 estates. The revenue from the death duties is a little more than one-half that from excise imposts, and considerably more than one-half the amount realized from the income tax which Great Britain imposes. In the last fiscal year, for example, the revenue raised was as follows: From estate duties, $94,230,039; excise duties, $180,221,094; income tax, $168,668,023. The gross capital value of the estates contributing to these taxes last year was $1,527,587,459, and the net value $1,373,784,449. The rates of duties for legacies are as follows: To a child or descendant of a child of the deceased or father or mother, or any lineal ancestor, 1 per cent; to a brother or sister of the deceased, or any decedent of a brother or sister, 3 per cent; to an uncle or aunt of the deceased or any decedent of an uncle or aunt, 5 per cent; to a great-uncle or aunt of the deceased or to any descendant of a great-uncle or aunt, 6 per cent; to any other person, 10 per cent.

Lord Desart's New Title.

Lord Desart, who has been presiding over the deliberations of the International Naval Congress in England, has just received from the hands of King Edward a barony in the United Kingdom. As Lord Desart was already an earl, and as such superior not only to barons, but even to viscounts, this honor conferred upon him by his sovereign requires some explanation. The fact is that the earldom of Lord Desart is an Irish one, and as such does not carry with it a seat in the House of Lords. As he has never succeeded in securing election as one of the representative peers of Ireland, he has been excluded from the gilded chamber; and it is because the government wished to have him there that it has secured from the crown for him a barony of the United Kingdom, which enables him to give the House of Lords the benefit of his legal experience. The latter is very extensive. For not only is he an authority on international law, but he was also the secretary and principal working member of the Judicature Acts Commission while for more than a quarter of a century he has been the principal legal adviser of the Treasury Department, and Director of Government Prosecution, as well as King's Prosecutor.

Germany's New Observatory.

The completion of the new observatory at Tretow is a source of much satisfaction to the astronomers of Germany. The building is an imposing one and possesses the most gigantic telescope in Germany. There is accommodation for every kind of experiment, and a library of over 10,000 volumes has been added to the handsome reading-room. The building of the observatory has taken unusually long on account of lack of funds. The Kaiser, who has shown much interest in the building, has conferred a distinguished order upon Dr. Archhold, the director.

A Family Postmastership.

A postoffice record of service which is probably unequalled anywhere in the world has been discovered at Churchill, near Enniskillen, Ireland, where the sub-postmaster has been in the same position since the establishment of the office in 1784. Thomas Wood, the great-grandfather of the present holder, was appointed in that year. He was succeeded in 1786 by his son, David, who reigned until 1832, when he handed over the office to his son, Archie. Archie held the post until 1862, when his son, Robert, took it over. Robert is now 90 years old and his son is in training to succeed him. The salary for 1903 was $15 a year, but when the present postmaster took over the post his pay was raised to $60 a year.

ORANGE SEEDS.

Reporters may find it hard to interview James A. Patten, but— He slightly shifted his position. "I find no trouble in pumping him!" saying, the Kansas City mosquito resumed his work.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

Margaret Moffat, in Sewell Collins's "The Girl at the Switch," heads the Orpheum bill this week. The sketch is a comedy of the exchange girl who is to be found somewhere about the docks of the big hostilities in Manhattan and The Bronx, and the author has succeeded in weaving a fair amount of plot into his quick-firing comedy. Miss Moffat is Millicent, the little independent telephone person; Joseph Graybill Griffin, a fresh, comical but not altogether purposeful youth, who buzzes in the telephone girl's vicinity; Louis Wood is a business man with the traditional business man's inability to get the right number; while not to be forgotten is Claude, the sleek, fat page, who mumbles meaningless gibberish in the lobby when supposed to intelligibly call the names of parties seated on the wire.

The Shakespearean European athletes, who have no special feature to their act, are the remarkable strong-woman performances of Mrs. Sandwina, who is a small but active husband.

London and Marx open the bill with a lot of tall-and-short German comedy which goes fairly well, but which appears better were the town and country expert, by much experience, on the fine points of German comedy.

Mr. Neillinger and King do a variety of stunts on the banjo, the piano, and in the "Tent" also is possible, and is accepted as such.

There are plenty of sketches this week. Adeline Dunlap and Frank McNeill are still here with Richard McNeill's play, "The Night of the 100th," and a "Tent" also is possible, and is accepted as such.

Hydegrade Galateas 18c Yard

Forty years ago a domestic material was introduced in competition with a similar and already very popular imported cloth. Today you hear little or nothing of the imported goods, while in the opinion of a very discriminating public there is but one Galatea—Hydegrade Manchester Galatea:

Wherever children are to be clothed Hydegrade Galatea is a household word; but those who have heretofore thought of it as belonging exclusively to the children's wardrobe will be glad to learn of its wider uses as well.

For "tub" dresses, rough-and-ready mountain suits, tennis, golf, yachting or everyday walking dresses it is unsurpassed. Because Hydegrade Galatea retains its softness and freshness and even acquires a new softness and fineness of texture after it is laundered that makes it decidedly more attractive. You cannot fade Hydegrade Galatea, even right out in the hot sun. And any cloth that meets the requirements of robust boys and girls and will stand the wear and tear of strenuous child life, is convincingly serviceable.

Manchester Hydegrade Galatea may be had in fifteen different colors and two hundred combinations of checks, plaids, stripes and solid shades at 18c.

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN

BY MISS SYDNEY FORD.

Have you come out on the hills to behold the golden glory of the mustard, now in full bloom? I assure you it's well worth while. I took a four-mile tramp over Mount Washington the other day and returned to town with such a picture impressed on my mind as will not fade for many a day. It does us good to occasionally shake the dust of city pavements from our shoes and get away from the man-made town into God's own country. We boldly walked up the incline railway to the very top and such a magnificent view as lay before, behind and on every side of us. Then we struck off over the hills, following the winding road which descends gradually to Highland Park. Our way led through a perfect grove of mustard, the pale green stalks rising like slender fairy tree trunks, and the golden blossoms swaying in the breeze above your heads. New and charming vistas continually opened before us at every turn of the winding road which led past the most delightful brown bungalows, clinging like swallows' nests, to the sides of the hills. Stately mansions are being built, too, on this enchanted spot, their wide windows commanding a view of the valleys which stretch away on every hand to the foothills, rising into mountains and the sky. We saw the sun set in a glory of gold, and we heard the good-night call of the birds and the chirp of crickets, and the breath of grass and flowers and all growing things came to us sweet and fragrant, called out by the descending dew of twilight.

Not more glorious are our poetry fields than our forests of yellow mustard, now in the height of their beauty. Don't miss the opportunity of beholding this magnificent picture from the brush of the Master of all artists.

Vest Sets for Men.

Dear knows, we women have our fads, and plenty of them. Some are pretty expensive fancies, too—but I verily believe the men can match us in this matter. Yesterday I spent half an hour in one of the largest jewelry establishments—and I learned a lot about the latest masculine fad in the line of jewelry. It seems that no man is entirely to-date these days unless he has a vest set of jewelry, and must include scarf pins, cuff buttons, cuff links and shirt studs—in all fully a dozen pieces. Some of these sets come as high as $2500.

"I know of one Los Angeles man," observed the manager, "who has spent $5000 on his various vest sets."

The buttons and studs are about the size of a dime, and a diamond or ruby or sapphire glitters from the center of the polished metal surface of each piece. Some sets for ordinary mortals come as low as $150, but the more elaborate and expensive they are, by just so much they appeal to the exclusive set.

Another fad is the new Waldemar vest chain, which is distinguished from the old-fashioned watch chain in that the golden links are broken every inch or so by an enamel setting, and the flash of diamonds or glitters of pearls breaks the monotony of the hitherto plain chain.

Still another masculine fad is the automobile clear shield, an arrangement of gold gauze and a cap which arrests the sparks as they fly back when one is motoring against the wind. The solid gold cap protects the end and the gold gauze gives ventilation on the sides. These trifles come at $15, and include a gold cylinder which fits over the shield when not in use.

Bags and Bangles.

To offset some of these expensive masculine fads there are a few pearls designed for us women. Among them I noticed an elegant gold mesh bag. Its price was but $80, and it certainly was worth it. The frame was set with diamonds and sapphires, and the bag itself was in the herringbone pattern and so finely woven that it might serve as the drapery of a gown. It fell in rippling, folded folds, as if shirred to the frame, and was as soft and pliable as a golden cobweb.

There was a dainty medicine glass which looked as if it would hold about two-thirds of an ounce. The actual measure one could twice empty a teaspoon into the tiny miniature wineglass which was included in a gold box, and would be used as accessory for the gold mesh bag. Its price was $25, and medicine would lose half its bitterness if administered from this crystal chalice.

Baby Born With Golden Spoon?

No longer do we speak of a baby as being born with a silver spoon in its mouth. Too cheap and common by half! The prosperous baby of this century must have a solid gold spoon if it would belong to the aristocracy of 1920. They only cost $25, and have curved handles just the right shape for baby fingers to clutch and hold. If you want to put your golden baby to pretty trifle for a plaything, why not invest $15 in one of those rattles in the shape of an ivory triangle with gold bangles attached to it? When the baby grows up he can use the bangles for watch fobs, or the girl baby when she reaches the age of bracelets can attach the bangles to her wrist jewelry and thus, with pretty sentiment, preserve the toys of babyhood.

Rings for Fingers and Ears.

"This is the greatest coral season we have ever known," remarked the jeweler. "There seems to be a perfect rage for coral—set in rings, cut into cameo brooches, in earrings and earrings. And speaking of ear-rings—just see here," and he showed me a tray of the very latest ear ornaments, the long lobes dangling from the drops, half way to one's shoulders. I exclaimed at their length, and the manager merely shrugged his shoulders and observed, "In New York they are wearing them quite to the shoulders."

cunning glass dish, shaped just like the body of a swan. There are seven pieces in the set—one large swan, and the half dozen small ones designed as individual nut dishes.

Illustrated Poems Framed.

A charming way of illustrating your favorite poem is to frame it beside a picture which portrays the subject. I noticed yesterday in the window of an art store two such illustrated poems. One was a copy of Burns-Jones's painting, "The Vampire," done in soft brown sepia, and on the margin appeared in artistic type Kipling's poem on the same subject. Another illustration of this clever combination of picture and poem was Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue."

Colors, Coats and Combinations.

"Cheviote" is the name given to a shade of brown, which, being interpreted, means hair brown. The newest colors for gloves are champagne and the lightest shades of brown, even to a bright yellow. Pear-shaped pearls or jewels, or strands of platinum threaded with diamonds and pearls, are fashionable. The main feature of the new straw hat is the crown. Some of the models have apparently nothing but crown. Pearl buttons, triangular, oblong and irregular in shape, will be worn as trimmings on many wash dresses. A sleeveless coat, which is being made for afternoon toilettes. Irish crochet motives, made of metallic cord instead of the usual thread are among the new trimmings for coats. All the newest gloves have the stitchings of the self-same color. They fasten with three pearl buttons. Long, slender lines are the chief characteristic of the smart spring suits for street and informal wear.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Friday Morning President.

The Friday Morning Club is faithful to its old love, and is evidently reluctant to adopt new leaders. The nominations have not been made, but the two names which head the list for president are Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst, and Mrs. J. S. Sartori, both former presidents and women of signal ability. Mrs. Tolhurst states positively that she will not serve another term. Mrs. Sartori has not expressed herself, but the general impression prevails that she will not accept the office. Who next?

Now in Press Association.

Mrs. Emma Summers of Los Angeles has been made an active member of the Pacific Coast Women's Press Association, and was guest of honor at the annual breakfast given by the organization yesterday in the red room of the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco. Mrs. W. C. Morrow is president of the association. A subject of discussion at the breakfast, which was also the annual meeting, was the book "Lentils," an adventure story of the South Pacific, which was recently written by Mrs. Morrow's husband, W. C. Morrow.

Election Nominations.

The nomination of Mrs. Willits J. Hole, to succeed herself as president of the Ebell Club, was a foregone conclusion, but it was made unanimous yesterday, showing the great appreciation of the manner in which Mrs. Hole has discharged the duties of chief executive.

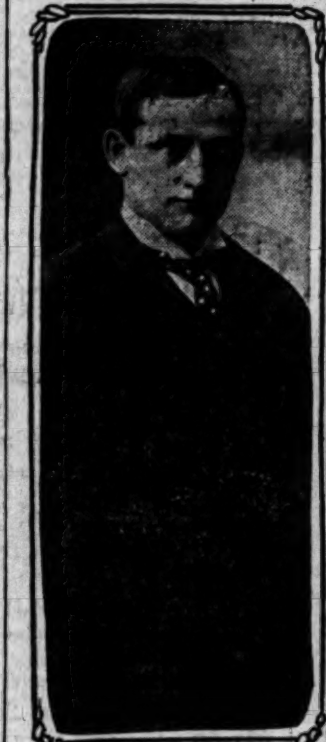

The Nominating Committee submitted a report yesterday afternoon with the following names on the slate: President, Mrs. Willits J. Hole; first vice-president, Mrs. George Bailey; second vice-president, Mrs. J. S. Sartori; third vice-president, Mrs. George Kress; recording secretary, Mrs. A. C. Smithers; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. H. Hammett; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Orcutt; and directors, Mrs. W. L. Jones and Mrs. E. C. Dieter. The annual French play followed at a large audience yesterday afternoon at the Ebell Club, the entertainment being in charge of Prof. Gabriel Durner, and the curtain, Mrs. J. S. Sartori. The two little comedies presented were laughable in the extreme and showed the performers to be the amateur performers. "Un Moment de Repose" was the first, presented by Mrs. Fred Hooker Jones, Miss Elsie Milner, Miss Boshner and Mrs. Robert McCormick. Mrs. Jones, as the nervous invalid who seeks refuge in a garden for a moment of repose, was the quintessence of a neurotic wreck. Miss Milner was the devoted nurse, making elaborate care of poor "Tante." But even in the remote seclusion of a garden there enters the disturbing element of a daughter who is enthusiastic about her Egyptian art studies, and who clatters about to the extreme discomfort of her poor mother. The second act, the other daughter who enters claiming lines from "Le Cid," and frightening the other into "Le Cid." Mrs. Robert McCormick took the last named part, embellishing it with a sort of dramatic insanity. "Le Cid" was the second skit. It was delightfully given. Mrs. David Barrow and Miss Edith Mitchell, in comic roles, convulsed the audience, while the rest of the cast, Miss Reba Smith, Miss Margaret Wollcott and Miss Byrdie, gave happy interpretations of their various roles.

W.C.T.U.

The twenty-sixth annual convention of the W.C.T.U. of Southern California will open today at the First Presbyterian Church. The convention will continue for four days, and on the programme outlined are many well-known speakers. The schedule for today includes, in the morning at 9:30 o'clock: Official board meeting, board of superintendents, executive meeting and noon-tide prayer. Afternoon, 1:30 o'clock: Convention called to order by the president, Mrs. Hester Griffith; crusade hymn, "Give to the Winds Thy Fears"; introduction of Crusaders; Crusade Psalm 146 in concert, led by Mrs. Lucy E. Blanchard, State vice president; prayer, Mrs. Emma F. Edwards; roll call; appointments of committees; resolution of counties for election of national delegates. Mrs. Sophia W. Plimpton, treasurer; introduction of hostess; "Year's Progress," county presidents; open parliament subject "How to Win," local presidents; music, Mrs. Alice Simmons; report of recording secretary, Mrs. Charity E. Way; report of corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary C. Sampson; report of treasurer, Mrs. S. W. Plimpton; report of Auditing Committee, Mrs. Alice A. Somes; consecration service, led by Miss Perry D. Richards, State superintendent of evangelistic work.

Have You Seen These Silver Swans?

Of all the artistic dishes for holding salad nuts or olives or bonbons, quite the most graceful I have yet seen are these lovely silver swans, which seem to be floating over the mirrored surface inside the window of a jeweler's shop on Broadway. Their graceful, behalf of the Ministerial Association, Rev. J. P. Watson, welcome in behalf of the schools, Prof. P. W. Kaufman; welcome, in behalf of the W.C.T.U., Mrs. Amanda Steadman; lecture, "Shasta Bales and Folks," Mrs. Mae Guthrie Tongler, national lecturer and organizer; free-will offering, Mrs. Stetson B. Irvine, national superintendent of Sunday-school work.

Colorado Lawyer to Speak.

Great interest is felt in the next programme to be given at the Ebell Club, when a prominent attorney of Pueblo, Colo., C. A. Ballreich, will tell the members and their guests something about the workings of a city government, the framing of a city charter, and last, but not least, the practical aspect of woman's suffrage. Mr. Ballreich is known as one of the best-informed men in the country on these matters; he had the framing of the charter under which the city of Pueblo is administered today, and he has been a close observer of the practical issues of woman's suffrage. The members of the Friday Morning Club, who have shown much interest in the matter of a franchise for women, have been invited to hear Mr. Ballreich.

Department President Honored.

The new W.R.C. president for the department of California and Nevada, Mrs. Ella F. Van Horne, was recently entertained with an elaborately appointed luncheon at the Hotel St. Francis, Burdick of No. 1033 Federal street. Another guest of honor was Mrs. Elmina Reynolds, one of the oldest army nurses in this country, who served during the Civil War.

The table was a beautiful sight, with rich red roses from the distinguished lace centerpiece and doliets. Covers were laid for the following guests: Mrs. Van Horne, Mrs. Reynolds and her granddaughter, Mrs. Julia Moore, and Miss Isabel Moore, Mrs. Lilla Henck and Miss Viola Henck, Mrs. Elsie Miller, Mrs. Charles Dornier, Mrs. Cora B. Sawyer, Mrs. Wistand, Mrs. Emily Morgan, Mrs. Joseph E. Coleman, Mrs. A. E. Magoon, Mrs. Asama Melchior and Mrs. Mattie C. Brown.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

Spencer since his incarceration. Three negroes were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday in connection with the Spencer case, a white man is involved, and Spencer's wife is held on suspicion until the police determine just what charge they will place against her.

Two officers had been watching Spencer for some time in the hope of connecting him with petty thefts. They finally decided to lock him up on a vagrancy charge. His wife was arrested at the same time.

Spencer managed to conceal the diamonds in his shoes and in a small chamomile skin about his neck. They were later discovered. A small diamond horseshoe had been broken up and some of the gems disposed of.

When questioned, Spencer stated that he had bought the horseshoe from a clerk named Sam Solomon. Solomon defaulted with diamonds valued at several hundred dollars. He was a clerk in a pawnshop. The diamond horseshoe had been left there for repairs, and was a part of the loot taken by Solomon, for whom the police are now looking.

While Spencer was in jail his home at No. 710 Banning street was entered and his property stolen. Coleman Moore, Ernest Cuen and Charles Poe were in Justice Frederickson's court yesterday charged with taking Spencer's property. Moore and Cuen were held for trial in the Superior Court, while Poe, who is under age, was sent to the juvenile court for trial.

Six Auto Speeders Fined.

Fines of $15 each were collected from five violators of the speed laws in Justice Roca's Police Court, yesterday. The courts are increasing the fines and the regular charge of $5, popular a year ago, has practically disappeared.

W. S. Boynton failed to appear to answer and his bail of $15 was applied as a fine. The same amount was collected from A. W. Crippen, H. L. Kimmeler, G. W. Vanaker and H. C. Lamb. E. B. Harrington paid $10.

THIS A SECTION OF REAL HOMES.

STRIKING PREPONDERANCE OF PRIVATE HOUSES.

Records for One Week of Building Permits and Contracts for Southern California Cities Reveal Secret of Amazing Growth and Development of Residence Areas.

That Los Angeles and other Southern California cities and towns are essentially places of homes will be made evident by a study of the accompanying reports for the past week of the permits issued and the contracts recorded for new buildings to cost $1000 and over. These reports show that the preponderance of dwellings over other classes of buildings being erected is an enormous one. Considerably over a hundred permits for new residences were issued in this city and its immediate vicinity. These, together with the forty or more actual contracts let, will serve to account to the thoughtful person for the amazing manner in which the city's residence area is increasing, from month to month.

Of the sixty-one permits issued within the city, forty-seven were for homes. Six were for store buildings, and the remainder for flats and other miscellaneous structures. Practically all of the forty-four contracts were let for private dwellings-houses.

In other towns of Los Angeles the number of permits issued totaled seventy-one, of which all but five or six were for residences. Pasadena leads with eighteen permits, while Santa Ana and San Diego each have twelve to their credits. Pasadena's record for April was $12,765, as opposed to $9,400 for the same period last year. Following are the figures which tell the story of the past week's notable developments.

ADORED LADY. SWEET MAID WHO WASN'T AFRAID.

CHINESE TODAY ARE TO HONOR HER FRAGRANT MEMORY.

Used to Still Waves at Will and Control Fiery-Eyed Sea Serpents and Dragons With Pink Noose. Heroine of Two Thousand Years Ago.

In memory of one of the greatest of Chinese heroines, the members of the Si Ho Tong will hold religious services at Juan and Alameda streets, today.

In the pages of Celestial history, between accounts of battles with dragons, and with flocks of air and ocean, appears the story of Neong Mai Goo Toar. That beautiful young woman, an unconquered herself to the uplifting of her race, refusing the hands of wealthy and powerful noblemen that she might live solely for the benefit of her people.

The ocean has always held terror for the Chinese. From its depths, hundreds of years ago (so runs the legend), the things that a man often sees when sent to the hospital for nerve treatment.

When the ocean tossed and roared the sailors on the teak wood junks threw themselves flat upon their faces on the decks and prayed in loud and musical tones to half a dozen gods with horrible names to have mercy on them.

On the day of Miss Neong Mai Goo Toar the ocean was believed to be filled with serpents with eyes of fire and scales of gold and brass, dragons with tinsel tails and pink noses and all the things that a man often sees when sent to the hospital for nerve treatment.
